Total cost for me to regrease, put a boot on, install new needle bearings and firm ride springkit and purchase any tools I needed: about $70.. What I have done is strip various car/motorcycle engines down and put them back together -working mind you!!!!-and my wife believes I have a natural aptitude for mechanics.. All I can say is that the order I've listed is the order I found that worked for me, and usually there's a method in the madness for a reason.. I had nothing to lose but time here Caveat number 2 Since I do not have access to top secret classified Cannondale documents regarding servicing/assembly of Headshoks, I am not privvy to torque specs or the like.. This means that I put this fork back together the best way I could (Cannondale diagrams notwithstanding) using at best some guesswork and 'common sense' ('common sense' here is very subjective I know..
